PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

We Need You!

The Bernard Osher Foundation provides a funding endowment to our OLLI every year. There are certain requirements we must meet to continue receiving this critically important funding—one being a minimum enrollment of 500 members. Last year we finished with a total of 428, closing in on 500. This year we are 5 short of where we were at this time last year and 208 short of the 500 goal. We all need to reach out and enroll a friend or two.

Why:

- To share the learning opportunities that we have already found with the greater community
- To find new friends with common interests
- To build membership to support more classes, more events
- To develop more leaders and more volunteers
- To fulfill our commitment of 500 members to the Bernard Osher Foundation in order to retain our funding endowment

For each new enrollee, you will receive a $25 gift certificate.

Let's fill those seats with smiling faces and curious minds.

Join us for the Dean's Distinguished Lecture 2022 Fall Quarter

About the Lecture:

Alzheimer's disease is a major health crisis that is projected to become an even larger threat in the coming decades. According to the National Institute on Aging, the number of Americans 65 and older with Alzheimer's could rise from 5.8 million in 2020 to 13.8 million by 2050. Given the severity of this health crisis and the toll it takes on patients, their families and society, we must be prepared today to address the needs of tomorrow.

Dean Frank LaFerla will present an overview of the state of Alzheimer's disease research. Following his presentation, the panel will cover emerging trends in research, care and the upcoming challenges we will face and how we might mitigate them.

A House, A Home, A Hope

The OC Housing Shortage is more than just a Homelessness Issue

With the high-profile focus in recent years of the plight of Orange County people experiencing homelessness, it is often overlooked that the severe housing shortage has effects ranging far beyond that specific segment of the population. It is a problem faced every day by working individuals and families throughout the county and in every municipality. To live, raise families AND work in the OC are realities that too often don't intersect causing major disruptions.

Join the ChangeMakers as George Tita, director of the Livable Cities Lab and Laura Archuleta, CEO of Jamboree Housing, outline results from an important and timely study showing the real effect of the siting of affordable housing and its effect on property values and crime. They will also illuminate the concerns of local businesses as they seek to retain a younger work force - products of world-class educational institutions - who are never-the-less leaving the county in search of careers in places they can afford to live. Laura and George will also discuss the many obstacles in the way of the creation of more housing - from a challenging regulatory environment to competitive market forces to NIMBYISM - and ways in which we can reach a path forward.
